2013 PRESIDENT Pauline Lau

Dear Jayceettes and Friends,

Time flies and it is already the last month of 2013, which means my year of Presidency of my beloved Chapter will end very soon.

When I look back at the 11 months that have just gone past, it really feels like yesterday...

All the times, high and low, ups and downs, flash back once again in my mind. I am most grateful to have had all the support, assistance and encouragement from my beloved Board of Directors, Presidential Advisors, Panel of Advisors, Past Presidents, fellow JCI Members and especially National Convention Director throughout year 2013. The numerous meetings, events and gatherings we have had, and every moment that I have shared with you, would always remain in my heart and make me feel the warmth and strength of our sisterhood bonded by true friendship.

This year, we have held a wonderful and meaningful award-winning project "Care and Dare" for the United Nations Millennium Development Goals (UNMDGs) to serve other ethnic groups in our society and have received many positive feedbacks from our co-organizers, partners and event participants. We have also hosted the highly acclaimed JCIHK 48th National Convention that highlights the meaning and significance of the theme "Needs Over Wants". In order to be well-prepared, our Organizing Committee Members, Advisors, Big Sisters and helpers had spent considerable efforts and overcome many challenges but nonetheless, we enjoy working and learning together. I am delighted to see the positive changes we have made, the passion to learn and the motivation to achieve throughout the process. Not only have we impacted the society, but we have also brought our members together to extend help to the needs.

Junior Chamber International Hong Kong Jayceettes has provided me with the opportunities to develop myself in many ways to become an all-round person and active citizen. While it took a great deal of courage for me to step up and become a President, I am glad that I have taken the challenge and definitely it has become one of the most precious experience of my life. I am lucky to have the understanding and love from my family, and the friendship and support from my fellow Jayceettes. I hope you have all found the values in here, just like me.

Taking this opportunity, I would like to express my sincere, warm wishes to the coming President Carol and her Board of Directors for taking up the challenge in 2014. I have no doubt that these capable young ladies will continue to help develop a sustainable future for our beloved Chapter. From "We Bond, We Unite" to "Passion for Brilliance", let us celebrate our 45th Anniversary together and support the 2014 Board!

WE ARE ONE JAYCEE

Time flies. Year 2013 will become history very soon.

To serve, to learn and to lead are the core values of JCI movement. It is through joining various impacting projects that members gain more experience and become LEADERS. Every year we have to plan, execute, finalize and evaluate various projects and at last we got the experience down in history.

This year has been a fruitful year for JCI Hong Kong Jayceettes which has not only delivered the impacting project "Care & Dare", but also worked closely with the United Nations through partnership with UNHCR. Through organizing various programs such as movie screening, refugee run and catwalk show for other ethnic groups, we extended our care to other ethnic groups in Hong Kong and promoted gender equality, asserted women's rights, meeting the United Nations Millennium Development Goals, namely, promoting Global Partnership for Development and Gender Equity by empowering women, and created obvious impacts in the community.

Moreover, as the Hosting Chapter of National Convention 2013, JCI Hong Kong Jayceettes has organized the best National Convention in recent years and made the theme "Needs over Wants" come TRUE. Each event, from theme seminars, General Assembly, Awards Presentation, Gala Ceremony, and even the training sessions, are good memories for us. Thank you very much for your hard work. Nevertheless, it was also a good experience for members to learn. JCI Hong Kong Jayceettes has not only created impacts by bringing happiness to us but also building up partnership, friendship and leadership.

Having attended the successful AGM and Anniversary, I thank President Pauline very much for her hard work, Convention Director cum Past President Senator Jennifer Lam and their members in achieving the excellence of JCI Hong Kong Jayceettes in this fruitful year. I wish a greater success of JCI Hong Kong Jayceettes in JCI movement in the coming future.

Paul Wu
NATIONAL PRESIDENT

Junior Chamber International Hong Kong

Dear President Pauline, Past National Presidents, Past Presidents and fellow members,

Time flies, it's near to the end of 2013. With the full support from all Jayceettes members, a lot of impactful projects were done! From the bottom of my heart, I'm really glad to be your NAEO, giving me the chance to work, to play and to dance with so many energetic, passionate and elegant ladies members. Throughout the year, I'm happy to see the rapid growth in each member, not only with an increase in confidence but also the commitment of making a better society.

I would also like to give thanks for your contribution to raise the awareness of other ethnic groups through the Movie Screening, Chinese Learning Project, Project Runway and Refugee Run. Other ethnic groups occupy around 5% of the total population of people in Hong Kong but are usually being neglected and discriminated. As a solution provider, your projects have helped boost their confidence as well as the harmony in the society. Besides, I would like to show my deepest appreciation for the great work of hosting the National Convention with over 500 delegates! Organizing a project of this big scale is not easy but you made it! Your year-round contribution deserves uncountable positive feedbacks. Please keep this momentum and contribute further sustainable development to the society.

Last but not least, I would like to congratulate President Pauline that she was appointed as the first JCI Special Recognition Committee Program Committee Member in the World Congress to bring JCI to new heights. Also, best wishes go to President Elect Carol Yeung and 2014 board of directors. I'm always with you and please let me know if there is anything that I can support.

National Assigned Executive Officer

[0.05 m<sup>3</sup>] + [1.79ft<sup>3</sup>] showcased in REVEAL- HKIA at ArtisTree 2013, a reinterpretation of perspective and geometry with architectural materials through precise computer programming

Made of 7,000 recycled plastic bottles, 'Rising Moon' was awarded the Gold award at the Lantern Wonderland Design Competition, aimed at raising awareness of environmental protection and collective efforts in creating a better place.

Where Innovation and Execution Meet in 0.05 m<sup>3</sup>

To Stanley Siu, one of the four designers of the 'Rising Moon' (悦滿中秋), a giant-eco-lantern structure at the Victoria Park that enchanted Hong Kong and the international audience in the Mid-Autumn Festival this year, can or cannot is never a question, the question lies on how to let other people visualize the same macro vision, which very often boils down to a matter of execution and compassion, with the strictest precision and deep in heart.

As an architect, what inspired you to integrate architecture with the contemporary art?

Since I was small, I was interested in both architecture and art. When I was a student, I would like to choose the most complicated subject of art and architecture was what I considered to be virtually the most sophisticated. If a giant building can be built, it is possible to create smaller forms of art too. Having grown to a habit of collecting art pieces and attending art exhibitions in Asia every year, I have kept abreast of the current trend of the contemporary art. 'Rising Moon' is a public art to me. When designing [0.05m<sup>3</sup>] + [1.79ft<sup>3</sup>], I used old aluminum windows and reframed them with a new look, these are steps that I would also consider when designing an architecture.

In the pursuit of art and when giving things a new form such as reframing an aluminum window into a diamond, have you encountered any occasions where there are voices of disbelief of what you have in mind? What approach would you take to overcome the discrepancy in perspective in the process of execution, from scratch to sketch?

No matter whether it is a job or working on art pieces that I am interested, there are always obstacles, one after another. It does not necessarily mean that one should compromise but one should try to find a solution to communicate with the counterparty as an idea would not work with you alone. Taking the case of aluminum windows, I need to find a master in such a declining industry in Hong Kong that still owns a store and knows how to cut. To explain to a master that the window is an art is not easy at all when he is used to create a standard, applicable aluminum window. It takes time to talk people through so as to enable them visualize what you design. It is thus essential to think of ways to give way to each other and achieve mutual satisfaction, regardless of scale.

By drawing analogy between melting sugar cubes and lost memories of the good old times, Stanley has a hope to bring happiness to the community in his future designs

In the case of 'Rising Moon', what I sought to achieve was aesthetics but the contractor could not, in an instance, understand how a perfect curve could be integral to creating a semi-circle. Under the circumstance, I tried to convince other people with emotional appeal, persuading them to imagine how happy their children would be by seeing such a beautiful installation. Somehow, it is just a matter of 5 mm and a fight can easily occur if people simply confront each other.

On project basis, from having a concept in mind to putting it into execution, could you share the key to execute something as abstract as simply a thought?

Art is very interesting, especially for contemporary art, as it is produced around us and at our time, as it literally suggests. It always happen that a creative idea, or the first sketch, does not work. One must, to his or her best knowledge, use the materials and technologies available at our time within a limited space and budget, and focus on every minute details. For instance, when we sketched the 'moon' for the competition and knew that we need to build the installation after winning the competition, we had to explore every steps. The installation itself sat on Victoria Park's Soccer Pitch but how could we create a pond of water for reflection of the semi-circle of the moon without digging a hole in around 13 days? It was intriguing to hear people saying that the pond was already there all along but to an architect, we need to have a clear mindset when communicating with contractors. All in all, it is important for one to understand every steps and be able to illustrate those steps to others. It would be impossible to convince others without convincing oneself.

It is interesting that architects and engineers tend to describe the world in 10 or 15 years' time. What is your point of view of the young architect's role for the sustainability of the society in Hong Kong?

For the public at large, what they see is a building established. As early as the stage of master planning, we already need to consider how to best align the building with the surrounding environment and periphery facilities, on such aspects as to the direction for the façade to face the sun for solar energy. When drawing a diameter of 100 meters, the question rests on how many public transport means are available for this site. If it can be measured, then we need not design so many car parks. It also comes to the issue of selection of materials. When a building completes construction, we can measure the carbon footprint generated. Using materials from the local region can reduce both the transportation costs and carbon footprint. We also focus on the certification of the materials, as to whether the materials are come from parties that are environmentally

When art meets architecture, Stanley finds the common ground in terms of an exchange of perspective, meticulous calculations and execution accountable. There has been more concern of sustainability and I am confident of our future development.

Since your designs have lots to do with the daily life, if there is one issue or problem for you to solve through architecture, either on social or domestic terms, what would come to your mind?

Happiness. In retrospect of my experience in designs and architecture, it is rare to see people smiling when they are entering and leaving an architecture. 550,000 people visited the 'Rising Moon' during the festival. Standing in the middle of the installation every single day, I saw all the big smiling faces around me. People either took photos with me if they knew who I am or took photos with the installation happily. Such happiness had offset all the hard work throughout the preparation and this is what I hope to achieve in the future.

Indeed, speaking with the young architect is insightful as he has come across with various difficulties either at work or in the process of design but he seldom questions the feasibilities but rather focuses on the solutions and details of execution. It is where we find a common ground between us, a platform of projects, and architecture. A great project always steams from a creative idea and for a good reason. Obstacles always abound but it is essential to understand that a great idea would not work by working alone and regardless of constraints. In constructing the active citizen framework, it is critical to identify the problems in the region with a macro view, illustrate to our partners the possible road map, execute with sustainable actions that produce tangible results and measurable development, so as to build a sustainable future with the community. While art may sound abstract, a great art piece is out of considerable calculations and consistent tests of perspective.

CARE & DARE Project

← Inspirational Session of We Love Runway and bestowing support from CPA HK, ethnic youths and designers

↑ After 2 inspiration sessions in May and June, 12 young, vibrant ethnic models from Caritas HK, staff and cosmetic professionals from Skyendor Hong Kong, Elite Make Up, Linda Beauty Group, Mekim Limited and Sasa International Holdings Limited, local designers and Jayceettes facilitators went on the runway on the same vision of helping refugees worldwide

↑ Organization of Refugee Run with JCI Manila

Chanting 'Care to Dare, Dare to Care', we embarked on an exciting journey to walk hand in hand with members of the community and to strive for positive changes.

JCI Hong Kong Jayceettes UNMDG 2013 Project ended with the successful completion of four events- Desert Flower Movie Screening, Let's move...Teach & Learn Chinese in Motion, We Love Runway and Refugee Run throughout March to August 2013.

The last two epics of the Care & Dare project were inspiring and forward-looking, with many social, economic and political implications. From raising the public awareness towards the ethnic minorities, "We Love Runway" took the extra mile by involving a great deal of exchange of views, talents across corporations, local design graduates, 12 ethnic models and our members. We can see that the community, and many more leaders and corporations, were actually working towards the same goal of improving the life of refugee children as a whole. While models found their future career path and goals, so did we, and our partners.

After the inspiring runway project, "Refugee Run" co-organised with JC Manila, provided us a chance to taste how it was like being trapped in helpless situation where we need to cope with poverty, danger, disease and chance to resettle. Participants were allocated different identities, age, occupation and health status, forced to settle down in a refugee camp. The experience of uncertainties was nerve-wrecking yet prompted the participants to think of solutions to turn the grave situation around.

Through our true life experiences, we felt the urge to stop the crisis and resolve the difficulties faced by the minorities in the society. With a step forward together, we hope to bring a little positive change, not only to ourselves, but also to the world.

Create Positive Change by Social Innovation cum LegCo Tour

May Fellowship Gathering
18 May 2013

Project Chairman: Do Do So

To “Create Positive Change by Social Innovation”, we aimed at bringing in three elements of change to our members including learning by seeing, increasing social awareness and having FUN!! We began with an Educational Tour at the New Legislative Council. As Jayceettes, we follow protocols and parliamentary procedures. Our Leadership Development team wanted to help raise members’ awareness on the JC essentials and show them a real life application of parliamentary procedures. Our members also had a better understanding of the work of the Legislative Council and explored the facilities of the new complex.

We were glad to have Ms. Teresa Sze, Project officer and a professional bakery of Tung Wah Group Hospitals Jockey Club Rehabilitation Complex, as our guest speaker to share her experience in operating social enterprises and how does ibakery create job opportunities for people with disabilities.

“Good Old Times”

June Fellowship Gathering
1 June 2013

Project Chairman: Cally Wong

The June fellowship gathering, themed 'Good Old Times', was successfully held at Regal Kowloon Hotel. Over 50 attendees enjoyed a fruitful night together with the kick-off of National Congress, Long Year Service Appreciation, the induction of new members as well as exquisite games such as guessing of songs and objects. We welcomed two prospective members, Hilda Wong and Linda Choi. It was a great experience collaborating with different parties to make this happen.

“Stroke - Golden 3 Hours”- the First MFG-cum-Health-Talk of Jayceettes!

July Fellowship Gathering
11 July 2013

Project Chairman: Vivian Yeung

The July MFG is both a substantial and entertaining one. We had the honour to invite neurologist Dr. Terrence Yuen Mang Ho to be our guest speaker, who gave us a health seminar on stroke. It was by far the first MFG featuring a health talk by a doctor. We were also pleased to invite Miss Catherine Wong, the Eye-Bank Manager, whose feature article appeared in the first issue of Snapshots 2013, to promote organ donation.

Besides, there was a session of blood pressure measuring hosted by IPP Winnie Yeung, and funny drama shows to demonstrate first aid tips. Attended by a full house, the evening was filled with laughter and excitement. The drama team did a great job and the audience had an enjoyable time seeing our girls dressed up as Superman and students of Monsters’ University before bringing home new knowledge of health.

“Shall We Dance”

November Fellowship Gathering
15 November 2013
Project Chairman: Linda Choi

To establish a closer bond with other chapters, we co-organised the November member fellowship gathering named “Shall we dance” with JCI Island on 15 November 2013.

More than 50 people attended the event and had great fun learning about the basics of ballroom dancing, namely waltz and cha-cha instructed by award-winning tutors Jimmy and Carol.

To make the night more exciting, the dancing tutors awarded the top 3 dancing couples for a free trial dance lesson!

Apart from the fun, President Pauline Lau and President Sam Cheng encouraged members to support the victims affected by Typhoon Haiyan in Philippines.

LOTS Training and JCI Impact

Group sharing of social problems in society

A fruitful course with 2014 board and members- Let's create impact!

2014 board formulating tasks for the coming year in training

Local Organization Officer Training (LOTS) for 2014 Board of Directors (“BOD”) has been held on 16 and 17 November. It’s our honour to have two experienced trainers, Past President Senator Joseph Ho of JCI Ocean and Past President Senator Anthony Cheng of JCI East Kowloon to conduct this training.

Day one was begun with Ice breaking exercises. BOD members have completed Belbin team Role Profile before attending the training and PP Anthony debriefed all on the results of this exercise for them to better understand the type of person they are, hence strengths and weaknesses of their personalities. Then through different team building exercises, including building a helicopter of Jungle Escape, BOD members worked together in teams to complete assignments and overcome obstacles. They have also sat down and discussed about the 10 Blocks Model of High Performance team, which enable them to understand what are the elements needed for having a high performing team.

A session of JCI Impact was organized in the afternoon to introduce Active Citizen Framework and its methodology in implementing projects to BOD members. They discussed the active citizenship concept, analysed the community needs, established the real causes of problems and discussed the projects of a Local Organization can conduct with other partners in order to create long lasting positive changes in their community.

On Day Two, through group discussions, team exercises and video sharings, PP Joseph introduced the branding concept to the BOD and inspired the BOD with the positioning of Jayceettes in year 2014. Through exercises, the BOD thought about tasks they would like to accomplish, leading them to think about the division of work and the Synergy needed.

Through this fruitful, two-day training, BOD 2014 does not only learn about technical skills or JC knowledge, with the experience and inspiration provided by the two trainers, I believe they will find their path and shine in year 2014. I hereby wish them a fruitful and successful year in 2014.

International Bonding

Jayceettes had a great experience in attending the 2013 JCI Asia Pacific Conference held at Gwangju, Korea from 13 to 16 June! 15 Jayceettes attended the Conference and we also held a game booth at Hong Kong Night.

Other than attending the meetings, trainings and national parties, we also met with sister chapters and friendship chapters where members enjoyed sharing the local projects held and have meeting on the arrangement of holding our joint project-the refugee run on 3 August.

It was an unforgettable experience because it was my first time to attend such a huge overseas conference and I got a chance to go abroad with my Jayceettes sisters. We definitely had a lot of laughter during the trip and had a better bonding after it. I was more than happy to join ASPAC.

ASPAC was certainly a good chance for international exposure. We had several lunch gatherings with our sister chapters and it was a very interesting experience to meet JC overseas who shared similar belief and vision. Not only did I get to know more about the operation of different chapters from different regions, we had also exchanged ideas of projects and seeking for opportunities that we can work together in the future.

During my stay, I joined JCI Achieve where I learnt the meaning of active citizenship and how we could live up to JCI Vision by join ventures and hence maximizing our power and bring greater influence to the community.

The most memorable thing in Gwangju would be the debate championship competition for JCI HK had become the finalist in the competition and I am very proud that one of the debaters, Director Sunny Chan, is from Jayceettes and she did extremely well. I am also impressed by their team spirit and the hard work for preparation as a team!

All in all, ASPAC is an eye opening experience and a rare opportunity to broaden your horizon and network. I highly recommend our members to join ASPAC!

Paragliding at new heights in World Congress, Rio de Janeiro!

After a 24-hour flight, my first World Congress journey began on 4 Nov 2013. The trip was full of fun and meaningful moments where a total of 22 JCI Hong Kong delegates shared much laughter, experienced new cultures, learned new things and met new friends together. During the Congress, I attended JCI training courses, supported our Ex-NAEO, Past National President Senator Ken Wong to run for the position of 2014 JCI Executive Vice President, met up with United Nations Foundation representatives to share the ideas of "Nothing But Net", met the first Lady Chapter of the World during the Delegate Lunch, and was honored to be appointed as one of the 2014 JCI Special Recognition Committee Program – committee members (Asian and the Pacific). On the other hand, I was very excited about my first paragliding experience. It was truly a wonderful and unforgettable experience to fly like a bird in the sky! I have been involved in International Affairs since 2010 and it has always been an eye-opening experience to me attending International Conferences and Congresses. I am fascinated by the internationalism and professionalism of JCI members, and amazed at the many surprises that I could get from different cultures! I have no hesitation in recommending anyone to join the amazing JCI journey!

'Think big. Do big'- being an ex-journalist, I am always hungry for new tastes and keep on exploring. With my close friend Naomi's recommendation, I started to know about JCI and I am so glad to have taken up different new roles, in particular as a team member of 'We Love Runway'! To me, the secrets of success lie in the passion for everything.

Carmen Ching

Hi this is Carmen. I am glad to be a member of JCI Hong Kong Jayceettes.

I like yoga, cooking and reading.

Participated in several interesting projects, I made new friends and learnt some methods and techniques to organize events.

Look forward to growing together, self-improvement and contribute to the community.

Linda Choi

Graduated from university in the year of 2009, I have been a workaholic who doesn't realize the importance of work-life balance. Not until when I was introduced to JCI Hong Kong Jayceettes, a place which offers me numerous opportunities to explore my interest through participating in different projects, did I realize life could be so much fun! I met some good friends here and would love to explore more about this exciting network!
